It was first introduced and organized by Australian Kiaps (Patrol Officers). Kiaps from each district built round houses typical of their districts. They proudly displayed cultures of their districts. The kiaps brought in sing sing groups from their area - twenty nine different languages and societies in Eastern Highlands was reflected in their culture.

Over the years, Goroka show has grown to one of the most vivid cultural events in Papua New Guinea, where visitors can experience the customs of over a hundred tribes that populate the Papua New Guinea highlands. During the course of the weekend the tribes gather for music, dancing, showing-off and extraordinary displays of tribal rituals. Amongst the performers are the legendary mud men of Asaro.

Tribal folklore records that centuries ago the warriors of Asaro were defeated in a tribal fight "payback" raid, and, to make themselves look fierce in the process, covered their bodies with grey mud. According to legend, the ruse worked. Their enemies fled at the sight of these ghostly apparitions. The mud men recreated the drama at the Goroka show. O/n PACIFIC GARDENS HOTEL, (BL)
